Summit of LOBUCHE PEAK

- Max ALTI: 6119 M
- 15 Days KTM-KTM

Lobuche Peak, which is south-west of Everest and close to the Khumbu Glacier, is one of the best options for peak-climbing experiences in Nepal. Lobuche East (6145m) and Lobuche West are the two principal Peaks (6119m). Our ultimate goal is Lobuche East, where we may enjoy breathtaking views of the Khumbu Glacier, the Khumbu Valley, and numerous other enormous snow-capped giants, such as Everest, Lhotse, Nuptse, Pumori, Amadablam, and many others. For mountain lovers who want to complete their ambition to reach the top of a Himalayan Peak quickly, Lobuche Peak might be the best option. In the Khumbu region, climbing Lobuche Peak offers a holistic experience because your summit route includes a walk to the base of the world's highest peak, Everest.
